Come Early, Stay Late!

ASHRAE Distinguished Lecturer Barry Benator, P.E., CEM will be speaking Thursday afternoon on topics that can help you be more effective in chapter operations

# Characteristics and Competencies of Outstanding Leadership

One of the toughest challenges facing engineers as they progress through their careers is the transition from engineer to leader. The skill sets for success as a leader are different from those of an engineer. This session will present several proven competencies of successful leaders, along with a discussion of how they are applied in an engineering environment.

# Effective Communication Skills

Effective communication is a critical element of successful leadership and project management, and each of us has a preferred communicating style. This presentation will discuss four common communicating styles, and will provide tips to help you “bridge the gaps” and communicate with others whose style may be different from your own.

Thursday night, join us for a time of social networking during the welcome reception and enjoy dinner with interactive entertainment

Friday night, enjoy a three-hour dinner cruise on beautiful Seneca Lake

The hospitality suite will be open throughout the weekend, come and spend some time networking with your fellow ASHRAE members
